A Single Source of Data Truth

Decision makers struggle to manage multiple sources of information on an enterprise level. Aperity’s Data Integrator collects, cleanses and integrates complex data sets from nearly any source quickly and accurately.

Align disparate data streams into a single, reliable source. Present data that informs, rather than overwhelms. Build consistency in how decisions are made across your organization.

Thousands of Integrations

The Aperity connector library includes both input connectors that provide supply chain data into the Data Exchange and output connectors which consume the data within business applications including Business Intelligence, CRM, ERP and Vertical solutions.
